

Webcast Monitor

Public-i Group Ltd are the leading providers of webcasting and other innovative multimedia solutions to the public sector.

We are currently looking to recruit a part-time Webcast Monitor. This person appointed would be responsible for monitoring and supporting client webcasts during the evenings and assisting them with basic troubleshooting should a problem arise.

This position offers a great opportunity to build skills and experience as well as earn some extra money - particularly suitable for those who already spend a fair amount of time online in the evenings!

Candidates must be computer literate, have clear and precise written and verbal communication skills and a good working knowledge of internet technologies. Experience of audio and video encoding / streaming would be a distinct advantage but not a necessity, as full training will be given.

This position is only suitable for candidates with a secure and stable broadband internet connection available to them at home, as well as being able to provide a mobile and landline contact telephone number.

The rate of pay for this post is £9.30 per hour. Working hours will be flexible to suit company and client commitments but will mainly cover weekday evenings [17:30 to 22:00 although this may be later if a meeting goes on for longer], with the possibility of some daytime and occasional weekend work.

Please email your CV along with any further information about yourself which you feel would be relevant to this post to recruitment@public-i.info
