

Job Description

Designation: Trainee AV Engineer

Salary: Dependent upon age (Under 23 £16,955 – over 23's £19,266 p.a.)

Public-i Group Ltd are the leading providers of webcasting, AV and other innovative multimedia solutions to the public sector.

We are looking to recruit a trainee AV Engineer to work alongside our qualified engineers and learn all aspects of this multi-faceted role. Our engineers undertake installation work of our webcasting equipment as well as supporting audio visual equipment or additional separate audio visual equipment at client sites.

The successful candidate will be someone who has a passion for technology along with a positive and pro-active attitude and approach and a keen desire to learn. The ideal candidate will be enthusiastic and committed to developing their potential within this starter role and will take pride in carrying out the tasks set for you. This post will be based in Hove although you will be able to travel to site with engineers as required through the training period.

No experience is necessary as we are looking for someone to join us and learn as the role progresses
